

Jack Quinn

Associate

jquinn@verrill-law.com

Jack provides regulatory and compliance solutions to clients across industries to meet their unique and complex permitting, auditing, and reporting needs.

Jack's practice focuses on guiding telecommunications and energy industry clients through the challenges of licensing and regulatory compliance on both the state and federal level to help them take advantage of growth opportunities throughout the country. He works with clients ranging from early-stage startups to large multinational corporations and is experienced in the administrative rulemaking process, conducting legal and market research, and drafting documents for filing with government agencies.

Prior to law school, Jack worked in the renewable energy industry helping expand access to solar power to underserved communities. As an undergraduate, he co-authored an academic paper analyzing the impact of climate change on winter athlete development.

When not in the office, you can expect to find him running, biking, or skiing in one of the many outdoor spaces New England has to offer or experimenting with a new method of coffee brewing.
